Reflecting everyday life

Office and departments of administration

We use: "Gyptone. Reflecting everyday life", because Gyptone, as a natural product with great design possibilities, sets the stage for a creative ceiling solution in a modern indoor environment where good room acoustics and natural indoor climates are taken into account.

Our solutions are adapted to the little office or the large meeting room, where many people stay for a long time. A room's sound is important for good well-being in daily life.

In the often large open-plan offices or departments of administration design is also an important factor contributing to the experience of a good indoor environment.

Gyptone's many patterns and formats offer lots of possibilities to design rooms with their own unique and special moods, and with a good environment both for the eye and the ear taken into consideration.
